It is situated at the former Central Police Station compound, one of the most significant heritage sites in Hong Kong, a rare public and cultural destination at the heart of Central, the commercial centre of the city.

Swiss architects, Herzog & de Meuron has just completed their works on this project as the master planner and design consultant. The project has revitalized a unique cluster of historic structures as well as added two new cultural buildings (JC Contemporary and JC Cube). During this visit, you will have the unique opportunity to have a behind-the-scene tour with our guided tour speaker Mr Edman Choy, Associate & Project Director from Herzog & de Meuron. Mr Choy began his collaboration with Herzog & de Meuron in Basel in 2003 as a Project Architect and became an Associate in 2009. He worked on projects of various types and scales in Asia, including China, Taiwan and India. He worked on the Central Police Station Conservation and Revitalization project, now known as Tai Kwun, Centre for Heritage & Art since the concept design phase in Basel. In 2011, he relocated to Hong Kong to manage the Tai Kwun design realization on site, and coordinate the setup and daily operation of Herzog & de Meuron Hong Kong office.
